Letter From The President

Your Reunion Committee has been working diligently to finalize the activities planned for the NCR REA Reunion planned for September 22 and 23, 2011. On page 10 you will find details for the various events that are underway. On page 11 is the Reunion 2011 Registration Form, which you must complete to RSVP and to specify the activities in which you want to participate.

As we mentioned in our Q1 newsletter, NCR has graciously agreed to host the traditional NCR REA Welcome Reception on Thursday, September 22 at the Presidential Banquet Center in Kettering, OH. As a result, the cost to members attending the reunion is greatly reduced! So please join me in expressing our sincere thanks to NCR for such a generous contribution to our organization!

For our Annual Meeting on Friday, September 23 at the NCR Country Club, Brady Kress, President, Dayton History, will provide an update on what Dayton History manages, with a focus on all the recent improvements to Carillon Park, which is the major touring event to attend Friday afternoon. And as always, an NCR Executive, to be announced in the Q3 newsletter, will provide an update on NCR.

As you know, NCR sold the Dayton World Headquarters building to the University of Dayton. The last event planned for the NCR REA Reunion is a tour of the building, followed by a brief presentation on UD’s future plans for this great facility.

We hope that many of you will be able to attend the NCR REA Reunion in September, and we encourage you to register as soon as possible, preferably on or before September 1, 2011.

We are looking forward to seeing you at REUNION 2011!

Sincerely,

NCR REA
Our mission is to keep members informed on issues related to NCR Corporation and other matters of interest. The REA was started in 1996, and helps perpetuate the legacy of NCR Corporation and its people. Membership in NCR REA is a great way to stay connected to NCR and its people.

From Your Editor

I would like to take this opportunity to thank everyone who has written recently to compliment us on our NCR REA newsletters. I also want to thank you for your suggestions on how to make this forum better and more useful for all members. Please keep those ideas coming!

Although most of our members live in Ohio, the REA is a national organization with members in every state but one. We also have several international members. We know there are many NCR groups that get together for breakfasts, brunches, lunches, dinners, parties, picnics, and so on. In addition, there are still marriages, regretfully deaths, and participation in civic, political, volunteer, and even new business endeavors. With that said, I ask you to continue sending your articles and pictures directly to me at our NCR REA P. O. Box, or send them online to our email at rea@ncr-rea.org. Whatever you send, we’ll do our best, space permitting, to publish it! Remember, the content of this newsletter is what we make it, so please feel free to participate as much as possible! We want to hear from you! Cheers!

REA Appoints New Trustee

Recently, the NCR REA Board appointed Mike Freeman as Trustee, replacing Barb Swinger, who resigned recently due to a significant change in work schedules. “Barb, we wish you well and thank you for all your contributions to our organization!”

As a third-generation NCR employee in his family, Mike began his NCR career in 1964 in the Order Approval Department. In 1966, he moved to the Office of Pricing as a Pricing Analyst. In the early 70s, Mike joined the Systems, Policies, and Procedures Department and became Manager in 1976. In 1980, he was appointed Property Manager for the USG and 741 Buildings. By 1988, he became Property Manager for all Corporate properties. In 1994, he was named Director, Property Management Services for all Dayton operations as part of the Corporate Real Estate Division. Finally, in 2004, Mike retired in this position after 40 years of service!

Mike joined the NCR REA in 1999. As a Trustee, he brings additional skill sets to our team. Please join us in welcoming Mike to the Board!
The Birth of Modern Salesmanship-Part 2

Last issue, we finished Part 1 with Mr. Patterson having published the first known Sales Manual, and with him ready to embark on a series of salesmanship firsts.

Perhaps Mr. Patterson’s single greatest contribution in modernizing salesmanship was his insistence that salesmen are made rather than born. Looking back, this concept is hardly a revelation. But back in the 1880’s, it was unheard of. Patterson realized that making a salesman required a great deal more than outfitting him in nice clothes, stuffing his briefcase with sales literature, and guiding him into a prospect’s place of business. If merchants were to be educated about the cash register, it was necessary to educate the salesmen first. Crane’s Sales Manual was a step in the right direction, but Patterson’s mind was already formulating other ideas to fire up his lackadaisical (Patterson’s words) sales force.

One of these early ideas was the so-called guaranteed territory, which gave each salesman his own domain. This concept eliminated duplication of effort, placed responsibility, and made for better customer relationships.

Another Patterson first was to establish a quota system. Under this system, the Company tried, to the best of its ability, to measure the sales potential of each territory, based on the number of potential customers in the territory and on the amount of business produced in that territory by previous salesmen. In short, the quota system was an attempt to convert guesswork into science. It provided each salesman with a definite target to shoot for, and at the same time allowed management back in Dayton to measure each salesman’s progress.

Patterson was a firm believer in public recognition. He felt that men were inspired nearly as much by the credit they received for a job well done as they were for the monetary reward they received for their work. Therefore, logic following the quota system and the guaranteed territory led Patterson to a program for recognizing and honoring those salesmen who met their quotas. As a result, the CPC, or Hundred Point Club, was established. The first C in CPC is the Roman numeral for 100. Salesmen made the club by achieving 100% of quota. In following years, countless other companies established similar sales clubs.

Brain-storming was never far from Patterson’s conscious thought. One of his newfound theories was that “teaching through the eye” was the most effective way to educate. He claimed he had found medical evidence for his conviction that visual things were easier to grasp than abstract ideas. Somewhere he had read that the optic nerve was 22 times stronger than the auditory nerve. This led him to the believe that if you tell a person something, it tends to go in one ear and out the other. However, when you show them something, the idea goes directly to the brain. Overnight, Patterson became a valued customer of the blackboard and chalk industry. When an important idea was raised, he would jump up, grab the chalk, and before long, with his gift for simplifying complex thoughts, he would fill the blackboard with understandable phases, diagrams, and sketches. The opening of the first NCR office in France provided the perfect example of Patterson’s “chalk talk” ability. The first task was to get an audience for his presentation. He ordered a salesman to run out to the sidewalk and ring a bell. Curious Frenchmen came inside to see what was happening. When the crowd was large enough, the door was locked and Patterson faced the group. It was only then that he realized he couldn’t speak a word of French. Unfazed, he picked up the chalk, turned to the blackboard, then gave what was probably both the first and last cash-register demonstration ever made without words. Apparently, his captive audience understood his presentation, as the history of NCR in France had officially begun without speaking a word of French.

Patterson’s gift for getting the most mileage out of an idea was again revealed as soon as he returned to Dayton. He purchased countless large pads of paper and had the NCR Woodworking Department construct pedestals for the pads. Thus was born the NCR “chart pedestal,” which became almost as essential a part of an NCR sales office as the furniture, the cash registers and, yes, even the salesmen and service men. Shortly thereafter, the chart pedestal was found in every office and manufacturing department at the Dayton facility. As usual, Patterson practiced what he preached. He even had a chart pedestal installed in his bedroom. He wanted to be sure to preserve any idea that came to him during the middle of the night.

In Part 3, we’ll discuss how Mr. Patterson’s stockholders scoffed at his so-called silly idea of “educating salesmen.” After all, they felt nobody should pay salesmen to learn. The only way to learn to sell was to go out and sell.

Following is an announcement that NCR published recently. We are providing this notice in case some of our members have not yet seen this.

If you have any questions, we strongly encourage you to contact NCR at the address and numbers listed below. Also, the Web site address for Fidelity is: https://www.fidelity.com.

Notice Regarding NCR Pension Plan

Dear Participant,

This notice is being provided for informational purposes and you are not required to respond in any way.

NCR has made an election permitted under Federal law to delay funding for the NCR Pension Plan. The election applies to the plan year beginning on January 1, 2010 and ending on December 31, 2010.

Without the election, Federal law generally requires that any increase in the amount by which the plan is underfunded for a plan year be paid off over 7 years. However, the election allows the increase in the amount by which the plan is underfunded for this plan year to be paid off in smaller annual payments over 15 years.

If you have any questions, contact the NCR Benefit Center c/o NCR Corporation, at World Headquarters, 3097 Satellite Boulevard, Building #700, Duluth, Georgia 30096-5810 or 1-800-245-9035.

This notice is also available to you on Fidelity NetBenefits®.

NCR REA, Inc.
P. O. Box 218
Germantown, OH  45327
Established in Dundee, Scotland, 1957, this fascinating ensemble performed at home and abroad, won many prizes, and at the end of each season, donated the proceeds to various charities.

Even today, bands in and around Dundee still boast about having ex-members of the NCR Pipe Band.
